CHILD WORKERS AND INDUSTRIAL HEALTH IN BRITAIN, 1780-1850

PETER KIRBY

In this comprehensive study, Peter Kirby places the occupational health of employed children within a broad context of social, industrial and environmental change during the period 1780 to 1850. The book explores the deformities, fevers, respiratory complaints, industrial injuries and physical ill-treatment which have long been associated with child labour in the factory workplace. The result is a more nuanced picture of child health and child labour during the classic 'factory age' which raises important questions about the enduring stereotype of the health-impaired and abused industrial child.

PETER KIRBY is Professor of Social History and Director of the Centre for the Social History of Health and Healthcare at Glasgow Caledonian University.

LANDLORDS AND TENANTS IN BRITAIN, 1440-1660

Tawney's Agrarian Problem Revisited

Edited by JANE WHITTLE

R.H. Tawney's Agrarian Problem in the Sixteenth Century (1912) surveyed landlord-tenant relations in Britain from 1440 to 1660, the period of emergent capitalism and rapidly changing property relations that stands between the end of serfdom and the more firmly capitalist system of the eighteenth century. Here, Tawney's book is re-evaluated by leading experts in agrarian and legal history and those who have conducted important local studies. The balance of power between landlords and tenants determined how the wealth of agrarian England was divided in this crucial period of economic development - this book reveals how this struggle was played out.

JANE WHITTLE is Professor of rural history at Exeter University.

PUBLISHING BUSINESS IN EIGHTEENTH-CENTURY ENGLAND

JAMES RAVEN

This book assesses the contribution of the business press and the publication of print to the economic transformation of England in the long eighteenth century. A pivotal change in the book trades, apparent from the late seventeenth century, was the increased separation of printers from bookseller-publishers, from the skilled artisan to the bookseller-financier who might have no prior training in the printing house. This book examines the broader social relationship between publication and the practical conduct of trade in the age of Enlightenment.

JAMES RAVEN is Professor of Modern History at the University of Essex.

THE FIRST CENTURY OF WELFARE: POVERTY AND POOR RELIEF IN LANCASHIRE, 1620-1730

JONATHAN HEALEY

This book, focussing on the developing county of Lancashire, draws on thousands of individual petitions for poor relief to peer into the social and economic world of England's marginal people. It looks not only at their struggles with poverty, illness and socio-economic upheavals but also at the strategies of economic survival they adopted. An intensely human picture surfaces of what it was like to experience poverty at a time when the seeds of state social welfare were being planted.

JONATHAN HEALEY is University Lecturer in English Local and Social History and Fellow of Kellogg College, University of Oxford.

POPULATION, WELFARE AND ECONOMIC CHANGE IN BRITAIN, 1290-1834

Edited by CHRIS BRIGGS, PETER KITSON & STEPHEN THOMPSON

This book presents the latest research on the causes and consequences of British population change from the medieval period to the eve of the Industrial Revolution, in both town and countryside. A distinctive feature of this book is its comparative perspective. By making systematic comparisons between economic and demographic developments in pre-industrial Britain and those taking place in various regions of contemporary Continental Europe and Russia, several chapters uncover how far Britain in this period was 'different'.

CHRIS BRIGGS is Lecturer in Medieval British Economic and Social History at the University of Cambridge; PETER KITSON is Research Associate at the Cambridge Group for the History of Population and Social Structure; STEPHEN THOMPSON is Director of Studies in History at Christ's College, Cambridge.

CONTRIBUTORS: Lorraine Barry, Jeremy Boulton, Chris Briggs, Bruce M.S. Campbell, Tracy Dennison, Nigel Goose, R.W. Hoyle, Peter Kitson, Julie Marfany, Rebecca Oakes, Sheila Ogilvie, Stephen Thompson, Samantha Williams, Sir Tony Wrigley, Margaret Yates.
